VIOLENT BATTLE RAGES IN BRUSSELS

U.S. IRRITATED WITH FRANCE TURKEY NOW HAS DERMAN SEPARATISTS

Washington, Nov. 2.-American ir ritation over the French refusal to limit the proposed inquiry into the reparations controversy was appreciably lessened today

A copy of the French note to Great Britain, accepting the invitation to the conference, was received at the State Department, and while it was not made public, it is understood that it is not nearly so bombastic as the public utterances of Premier Poincare and the French foreign office have indicated.

Washington, Nov. 2-The United States may not participate in the projected reparations conference after all.

Irritated and disappointed at the tactics of the French foreign office seeking to interpose limitations on the conference even before it has begun to take shape, officials of this government were seriously considering today whether it is "worth while," as one of them put it, for America to send experts abroad to take part.

This statement was made by an authorized spokesman for the government, who added: "It never has been pur intention that the delegates to the conference should conduct an abortive and limited inquiry."

Premier Poincare then, if press reports from Paris are verified, seemingly succeeded in imposing a condi-Rion to which this government will not give its assent, when he said: "Let it (the reparations conference) not attempt either to change decisions already taken regarding the tofuture attempts indefinitely."

The spokesman declared that all previous official utterances of the French premier could be squared with the terms upon which it is proposed to hold the conference. It was asserted if the government is notified pfficially that the conference must not investigate Germany's reparation paying ability, it will not be worth while to agree to American participation. The state department is without word from France that Poincare has refused any reparations inquiry, but pfficials obviously were disturbed by the cable dispatches coming through unofficial channels.

Officials now admit that it looks very much as though Poincare is following deliberately the policy of piling condition on condition until Great Britain and the United States give up all hope of reducing Germany's war Lyons, former stenographer for Wilbill through international agreement. liam J. Corcoran, ex-district attorney Poincare's present tactics, it is plaimed, go much further than was intended by those who drafted the alleged blackmail ring trial that she Versailles treaty. Paragraph 13 of Annex 11, Chapter 8, of that treaty, It was stated, specifies that the had been given a bad scare on the reparations total fixed should not be night before and that they were gochanged except by unanimous consent of all nations concerned.

The American and British governments, the spokesman explained, have accepted the principle that the reparations sum due France, Belgium and Italy can not be reduced without their consent. In order to present a proposal for their consideration and possible approval, it is first necessary to formulate it and to do that an in- persons charged with complicity in nuiry must be held.

The state department now has before it for consideration several more pr less formal communications from toreign governments. The nature of the communications was not disclosed by officials, but apparently they are not of a nature that precludes hope of holding the conference.

London, Nov. 2-An Invitation to the United States to send representatives to the international conlerence of reparations experts being drafted and probably will be dispatched with a few days to foreign office this afternoon.

The invitation will follow the line of the original British note proposing the creation of an international committee of experts to examine the reparations question.

The terms for the conference will not be specified. This will be left to the inter-allied reparations commission under whose auspices the Investigation into Germany's capacity for payment will be conducted.

British officials regard Premier Poincare's Nevers speech milder than his previous pronouncements, Indicating that American opinion has had some effect upon him.

When beginning a dietetic regimen for the purpose of increasing bower activity, it is well to remember that there is a possibility that you have been eating too heartily. Under such circumstances, of course it is exceedingly valuable to precede your course of treatment with a short fast of at least one or two meals, or better still, one or two days. A process of this kind will help to give the bowels muscular tone

They will be able to perform their functions more ably as a result of this brief rest. But whether you take this dietetic rest or not, it will be necessary to add various foods to the diet that will bring about the desired object.

Use whole-wheat bread, not the brownish bread that is often sold for whole-wheat, but the bread that is made from the whole grain, bran

There are various fruits that are frequently recommended for this trouble and many of them are valuable. Grapes, for instance, can be recommended. Grape-juice is like wise very often effective. This is especially so if it is taken in the form of what some call graye-coffee. This is made by filling a cup about one-third full of grape-juice, sweetening it with a teaspoonful of sugar, and filling the cap with boiling water. If one or two cups of this are taken immediately after a meal, it often brings good results.

OUR PRE-EMINENT BRITISH VISITOR.

Lloyd George's whole life is a dramatic narrative. At three years old he was left fatherless. His mother with a small farm on her hands, had to sell everything she possessed to pay her debts, and then she went up from the south of Wales to the north, to a little village, Llanystumdwy, to live with her brother, an old bachelor shoemaker. He kept them for years. There was little food for the family, meat being a luxury to be obtained only once or twice a week Lloyd George has told me himself how his mother, to give her two little boys a treat, used to provide them with half an egg each for breakfast on Sunday morning.

When he was about twelve and his future had to be thought of the old shoemaker, who by diligent saving of a few shillings a week for a long period of years had amassed a sum of about to hundred pounds, decided to invest it in furthering education of his nephew, who otherwise might have been fated to work in the fields as a farm laborer. David Lloyd George was a mischevious young dare-devil, not studious at school, but nevertheless always at the top of his class. He responded to his uncle's sacrifice by passing rapidly the preliminary examinations. He had to fling himself into the job because even with his uncle's savings there was not any superfluity of means. The old shoemaker took upon himself the task of learning the elements of Latin and French in order to help forward the boy's education. When at twentyone he became a lawyer, there was not enough money left in the little family to buy the gown necessary for him to appear in the local courts. Three pounds ($15) was necessary and Lloyd George went to work as a clerk in an office and earned the

A thousand stories are related of young George in the next few years builling himself up a small business as a lawyer in a country district and at the same time securing practice as public speaker at political meetings, church gatherings, and debating so cieties. He was always for the poor; fought desperately, ruthlessly, and earned the hatred of the rich landed proprietors in the ed a Hallowe'en party at the home the Wilmington pike died at the Mc- 1.y goods and clothing store. A boy, district, whom he challenged on every occasion. He was about 24 when an incident occurred which brought him into wide prom inence in Wales. In a village at the foot of Snodon, an old quarryman, a devout Methodist, on his deathbed asked that he might be buried by the side of his sister a Church of England woman, who lay in the graveyard of the Established Church of England. The rector, a bigoted man, refused permission beause the old quarryman was a Methodist, and the angry villagers went to young Lloyd George to ask his advice. He studied up the law of the matter and told them to take the body to the churchyard Bledsaw of East Market Street. and if the rector locked the gates against them to break down the gates, carry the body in and bury it. They followed his advce. There was a tremendous scandal; a lawsuit was instituted by the Church authorities and the villagers on a point of law were defeated in the local court. Young Lloyd George promptly took ors. All the guests were masked. Braised Meat Balls: These may be made with almost any kind of leftover cooked meat. (Last Sunday's menu called for Roast Lamb, so I assume there is still some left for this dish.) Put the cold meat through your food chopper and measure. You will need two cups of the chopped meat. Add to it one teaspoon of salt, a pinch of papper, one egg (beaten) and two tablesprions of fine breadcrumbs; mix well and form into eight small balls, with the hands. Brown these balls in a little bacon fat, in your pan, then put them into a baking dish with the pan drippings and add onehalf can of tomatoes, one cup each this time. of diced uncooked carrots and celfine, and one more teaspoon of salt. into a moderate oven to cook for two be tender. Lettuce Sandwiches: When the family tires of lettuce served as a salad, serve it in sandwich form. Simply press a crisp leaf of lettuce between two buttered slices of wholewheat bread. We need a great deal of lettuce in our diet (as well as other greens, and fruit,) but we must not let these indispensable foods become monotonous.

Sweet Potato Croquettes: Put through your food chopper enough cold, boiled sweet potatoes to make one and one-half cupsful. Add to this one tablespoon of melted butter, one-half tablespoon of brown sugar, the beaten yolk of one egg and salt, pepper, mace and ground cinnamon to suit your individual Mix well together, then form into small croquettes with the Roll these little cakes in fine bread crumbs, then in unbeaten egg, and once more in the crumbs before frying them in bacon fat.

Cheese Souffle: Begin by making the following White Sauce: Melt three tablespoons of butter in a smal saucepan, stir into it three tablespoons of bread flour, one-fourth teaspoon of salt and a pinch of white pepper: let cook slowly till it bubbles, then remove from intense heat and gradually add one cup of sweet milk. Let continue to cook over mild heat till it thick-While this sauce is still hot, add to it one-half cup of finely chopped or grated, mild American cheese, one-fourth teaspoon of salt, and a dash of red pepper; remove from heat and add the yolks of three eggs beaten till thick, then let the mixture cool. When almost cold, cut and fold into it the stifflywhipped whites of three eggs and turn all into a buttered baking dish. Bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven and serve at once.

VIOLENT BATTLE RAGES IN BRUSSELS

U.S. RRITATED WITH FRANCE TURKEY NOW HAS NEW PRESIDENT

Washington, Nov. 2.-American ir ritation over the French refusal to limit the proposed inquiry into the reparations controversy was apprectably lessened today

A copy of the French note to Great Britain, accepting the invitation to the conference, was received at the State Department, and while it was not made public, it is understood that it is not nearly so bombastic as the public utterances of Premier Poincare and the French foreign office have indicated.

Washington, Nov. 2-The United States may not participate in the projected reparations conference after all.

Irritated and disappointed at the tactics of the French foreign office as seeking to interpose limitations on the conference even before it has begun to take shape, officials of this govornment were seriously considering today whether it is "worth while," as one of them put it, for America to send experts abroad to

Premier Poincare then, if press reports from Paris are verified, seemingly succeeded in imposing a condi-Rion to which this government will not give its assent, when he said: "Let it (the reparations conference) not attempt either to change decisions already taken regarding the total amount of our credits, or engage

The spokesman declared that all previous official utterances of the French premier could be squared with the terms upon which it is proposed to hold the conference. It was asserted if the government is notified officially that the conference must not investigate Germany's reparation paying ability, it will not be worth while to agree to American participa-

The state department is without word from France that Poincare has refused any reparations inquiry, but pfficials obviously were disturbed by the cable dispatches coming through unofficial channels.

Officials now admit that it looks very much as though Poincare is following deliberately the policy of piling condition on condition until Great Britain and the United States give up

Poincare's present tactics, it is claimed, go much further than was intended by those who drafted the Versailles treaty. Paragraph 13 of Annex 11, Chapter 8, of that treaty, it was stated, specifies that the reparations total fixed should not be changed except by unanimous consent of all nations concerned.

The American and British governments, the spokesman explained, have accepted the principle that the reparations sum due France, Belgium and Italy can not be reduced without their consent. In order to present a addressed by Corcoran were J. Warpossible approval, it is first necessary quiry must be held.

The state department now has before it for consideration several more pr less formal communications from loreign governments. The nature of the communications was not disclosed by officials, but apparently they are not of a nature that precludes hope of holding the conference.

London, Nov. 2-An Invitation to the United States to send representatives to the international conlerence of reparations experts is dispatched with a few days to foreign office this afternoon.

The invitation will follow the line of the original British note proposing the creation of an international sommittee of experts to examine the reparations question.

The terms for the conference will not be specified. This will be left to the inter-allied reparations commission under whose auspices the investigation into Germany's capacity for payment will be conducted. British officials regard Premier Poincare's Nevers speech milder than his previous pronouncements. indicating that American opinion has

Use whole-wheat bread, not the brownish bread that is often sold for whole-wheat, but the bread that is made from the whole grain, bran and all.

There are various fruits that are frequently recommended for this trouble and many of them are valuable. Grapes, for instance, can be recommended. Grape-juice is like wise very often effective. This is especially so if it is taken in the form of what some call graye-coffee. This is made by filling a cup about one-third full of grape-juice, sweetening it with a teaspoonful of sugar, and filling the cup with boiling water. If one or two cups of this are taken immediately after a meal, it often brings good results.

Some find that apples act very beneficially.

Many people suffer from constipation because they do not supply the system with sufficient water. This does not mean, however, that you should force yourself to drink large quantities of water, but one should acquire a habit of drinking at least a glass of water for every two hours during the day, excepting the time consumed in sleep.

In many cases I would advise use of uncooked foods. OUR PRE-EMINENT BRITISH VISITOR.

Lloyd George's whole life is a dramatic narrative. At three years old he was left fatherless. His mother with a small farm on her hands, had to sell everything she possessed to pay her debts, and then she went up from the south of Wales to the north, to a little village, Llanystumdwy, to live with her brother, an old bachelor shoemaker. He kept them for years. There was little food for the family, meat being a luxury to be obtained only once or twice a week Lloyd George has told me himself how his mother, to give her two little boys a treat, used to provide them with half an egg each for breakfast on Sunday morning.

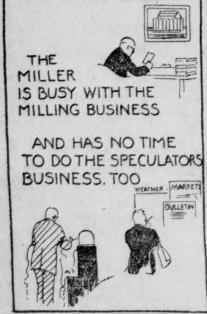

When he was about twelve and his future had to be thought of the old shoemaker, who by diligent saving of a few shillings a week for a long period of years had amassed a sum of about to hundred pounds, decided to invest it in furthering education of his nephew, who otherwise might have been fated to work in the fields as a farm laborer. David Lloyd George was a mischevious young dare-devil, not studious at school, but nevertheless always at the top of his class. He responded to his uncle's sacrifice by passing rapidly the preliminary examinations. He had to fling himself into the job because even with his uncle's savings there was not any superfluity of means. The old shoemaker took upon himself the task of learning the elements of Latin and French in order to help forward the boy's education. When at twentyone he became a lawyer, there was not enough money left in the little family to buy the gown necessary for him to appear in the local courts. Three pounds ($15) was necessary and Lloyd George went to work as a clerk in an office and earned the money-A thousand stories are related of young George in the next few vears builling himself up a small business as a lawyer in a country district and at the same time securing practice as public speaker at political meetings, church gatherings, and debating societies. He was always for the poor; fought desperately, ruthlessly, and earned the hatred of the rich landed proprietors in the ed a Hallowe'en party at the home the Wilmington pike died at the Mc. dry goods and clothing store. A boy, district, whom he challenged on every occasion. He was about 24 when an incident occurred which brought him into wide prom inence in Wales. In a village at the foot of Snodon, an old quarryman a devout Methodist on his deathbed asked that he might be buried by the side of his sister, a Church of England Carrie Robinson and Mrs. Samuel woman, who lay in the graveyard of the Established Church of England. The rector, a bigoted man, refused permission beause the old quarryman was a Methodist, and the angry villagers went to young Lloyd George to ask his advice. He studied up the law of the matter and told them to take the body to the churchyard Bledsaw of East Market Street. and if the rector locked the gates against them to break down the gates, carry the body in and bury it. They followed his ad- party Wednesday evening at the vce. There was a tremendous scandal; a lawsuit was instituted by the Church authorities and the villagers on a point of law were defeated in the local court. Young Lloyd George promptly took the case to the Supreme Court in London, where the Lord Chief Justice and other judges decided that he was right and that the Churh authorities were wrong. From that time Lloyd George became a national figure in Wales-

CONSIDERING CONDITIONS

London, Nov. 2 .- The British cabinet is considering Premier Poincare's latest qualification to his acceptance of the proposed expert commission on reparations. He is demanding that a communication be sent to Washingquiry to "Germany's present capacity to pay." It is recalled here that Poincare has already declared that Germany is unable to pay anything now. Last Sunday in his speech at Sampigny he said he would not agree to any discussion of the German future capacity to pay. Hence the British are asking now just what Poin-

ENTRAL HIGH FOITBALL TEAM DROPS GAME TO TROY AT TROY THURSDAY 45 t oo

Xenia Central High football team saved its fighting spirit for the third quarter of the game with Troy High at Troy Thursday afternoon and permitted the Trojans to walk away with a 45 to 0 score in the other three periods

Scorched under a searing lecture from Coach "Puss" Burgner between halves, the blue and white athletes showed real form only in the third quarter, uncorking a real attack and showing good form on defense. A pass intercepted by Greiner, star Troy half back, on his own ten yard line took the starch out of the Xenia attack three touchdowns.

BILLIARD MATCH

New York, Nov. 2 .- An upset occurred in the world's 18.2 balkline billiards tourney when Erich Hagenlacher, the German champion, beat Welker Cochran, the California star, who vanquished Willie Hoppe. Hagenlacher, who defeated Roger Conti, the French champion, Wednesday, came through to victory by the margin of 500 to 323 points over Cochran. Willie Hoppe, world's billiard champion, defeated Edouard Horemans, the champion of Belgium. After the Belgian had scored a record run of 241. makin the count 415 to 323. Hoppe came from behind and won, 500 to 435.

Young Jake Schaefer, favored by many to win, scored his second victory in two matches by defeating Roger Conti, champion of France,

Braised Meat Balls: These may be made with almost any kind of leftover cooked meat. (Last Sunday's menu called for Roast Lamb, so I assume there is still some left for this dish.) Put the cold meat through your food chopper and measure. You will need two cups of the chopped meat. Add to it one teaspoon of salt, a pinch of papper, one egg (beaten) and two tablespoons of fine breadcrumbs; mix well and form into eight small balls, with the hands. Brown these balls in a little bacon fat, in your pan, then put them into a baking dish with the pan drippings and add onehalf can of tomatoes, one cup each this time. of diced uncooked carrots and celery, one parboiled sweet pepper cut fine, and one more teaspoon of sait. Cover the dish closely and slip it into a moderate oven to cook for two hours, when the 'vegetables snould be tender. Serve hot, in the same

Lettuce Sandwiches: When the family tires of lettuce served as a salad, serve it in sandwich form. Simply press a crisp leaf of lettuce between two buttered slices of great deal of lettuce in our diet (as well as other greens, and fruit,) but we must not let these indispensable foods become monotonous

Sweet Potato Croquettes: Put through your food chopper enough cold, boiled sweet potatocs to make one and one-half cupsful. Add to this one tablespoon of melted butter, one-half tablespoon of brown sugar, the beaten yolk of one egg and salt, pepper, mace and ground cinnamon to suit your individual liking. Mix well together, then form into small croquettes with the hands. Roll these little cakes in fine bread crumbs, then in unbeaten egg, and once more in the crumbs before frying them in bacon fat. Cheese Souffle: Begin by making the following White Sauce: Melt three tablespoons of butter in a smal saucepan, stir into it three tablespoons of bread flour, one-fourth teaspoon of salt and a pinch of white pepper: let cook slowly till it bubbles, then remove from intense heat and gradually add one cup of sweet milk. Let continue to cook over mild heat till it thickens. While this sauce is still hot, add to it one-half cup of finely chopped or grated, mild American cheese, one-fourth teaspoon of salt, and a dash of red pepper; remove the yolks of from heat and add three eggs beaten till thick, then let When almost the mixture cool. cold, cut and fold into it the stifflywhipped whites of three eggs and turn all into a buttered baking dish. A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 oz. Some baking powders come in 12 oz. cans instead of 16 oz. cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

The Economy BAKING POWDER

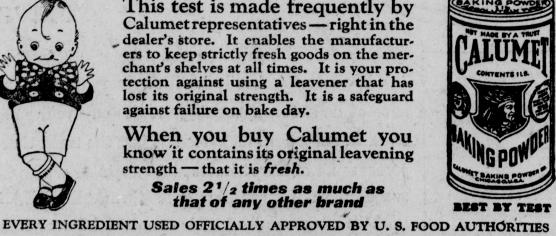

Notice the uniform distribution of the gas bubbles - how high and evenly they rise. The same thing occurs in your bakings when you use Calumet. That's why everything made with it always raises perfectly. Its great leavening strength does it.

This test is made frequently by Calumetrepresentatives—right in the dealer's store. It enables the manufacturers to keep strictly fresh goods on the merchant's shelves at all times. It is your protection against using a leavener that has lost its original strength. It is a safeguard against failure on bake day.

When you buy Calumet you know it contains its original leavening strength - that it is fresh.
